

CONTRACT LET ON HIGHWAY AT LOW PRICE

FORT WORTH FIRM LOWEST BIDDER FOR THE WORK

Price About $50,000 Under Estimates Made for Work—Expect Construction to Start Soon.

Ernest Lloyd of Fort Worth was awarded the contract for the caliche base on highway No. 9, Canyon to Happy, for the price of $76,390 at the letting of the State Highway Commission in Austin Monday.

Judge S. B. Orton stated Tuesday that he was very agreeably surprised at the low bid, which is about $50,000 under the estimates made by the engineers on the project.

The contract calls for a caliche base on the 16.6 miles. The topping of Asphalt will be added at a later date, at such a time as the engineers determine that the grades have thoroughly settled. The contract will require 140 days working time, and local labor will be used so far as possible. Work will be started within a short time.

Judge Orton states that with this exceptionally low bid, he is sure that the State Highway Commission will call for bids on highway No. 33, west from Canyon, at the next letting of the state highway commission. The plans for this highway were recently completed and accepted.

Phillips Heads the Judging Vocational Work—Meet Here

Stock judging contests for Future Farmers of America boys will be an annual event in connection with the Amarillo Fair Stock Show, it was decided at the close of the first contest Monday in Amarillo. Prof. Frank R. Phillips, head of the Agriculture Department of the West Texas State Teachers College, was made superintendent of this new division.

Meeting in a called session at the Tri-State Fair Grounds Monday afternoon, members of the Panhandle Vocational Agriculture Teachers Club voted to send J. M. Hill of Claude, club president, and L. J. Young, of Farwell, to Fort Worth next Saturday to attend a state meeting of vocational agriculture teachers. The two delegates will represent the whole Panhandle area.

It was also voted to ask the Tri-State Fair Association for individual awards for contestants in the poultry and dairy divisions of the Fair.

Plans for a bigger premium list and more exhibits in the Future Farmers of America division of the Fair were laid before the vocational teachers by Mr. Phillips. Success of the exhibits last year, the first in this region, prompted the move.

The spring meeting of the vocational teachers will be at the Tierra Blanca Hog Ranch, east of Canyon in May at which time the rules for the poultry and dairy division of the Tri-State Fair will be made known.

Howard Retired as Pastor of Baptist Church on Sunday

Rev. C. G. Howard preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the local Baptist church Sunday night. A large congregation greeted the retiring pastor. The Methodist congregation was dismissed by Rev. C. E. Jameson to join in the services.

Rev. Howard stated Saturday that his plans for the immediate future were indefinite.

The local church has made no plans for calling a new pastor.

Miss Angie Debo Tells Rotarians About Washington

The Canyon Rotary Club on Tuesday heard a very interesting talk by Miss Angie Debo, teacher in the History department of the College, on the impression gained from reading all of the published letters of George Washington, and the contemporary documents of his time. The program was in charge of the classifications committee, Albert Terry, chairman.

The birthday of George Allen Farlow, March 1st, was recognized. John C. Fain of Amarillo was a visiting Rotarian.

A committee was appointed, composed of Doug Shirley, Harry Brown and Oscar Gano to work out plans for the return visit of the Panhandle Rotary Club.

Miss Debo stated that George Washington was the most written of man in American history. 400 biographies have been published. Up until the past ten years these have been largely eulogistic in nature, but then the debunk authors started to write for those who liked scandal and would buy that type of book. The Bi-Centennial commission was determined that the American people should know Washington better, and as he really lived.

The speaker stated that in reading the letters and documents of Washington, and others of his time that she had reached definite conclusions regarding his character. He did not break through his reserve, but the following qualities were outstanding:

He was not a genius, as Hamilton and Jefferson, but had a sound horse sense, and unusual business judgment. His greatest desire was to run his own plantation, which was a great success. He was always on the outlook for new methods of farming, and new projects.

He had extraordinarily good health. His death was not so much the result of illness as ill-advised bleeding by physicians, which was the recognized treatment of his day.

He was athletic, holding the broad jump record for 120 years. He was a commanding personality. As a soldier, he looked like a general. As a statesman, he looked like a president.

He had a most serious nature, very reserved. He was careful of his reputation, was afraid of himself, and suffered under criticism.

Report on Survey Of Education Is Filled Out Here

United States Department of Interior Office of Education at Washington has sent a bulletin to the various colleges and universities connected with teachers. W. T. has received one of these bulletins to be filled out by Dean Jarrett. It is a national survey and the status of staffs of colleges and universities which is most intimately associated with the preparation of teachers for American schools. Institutions of higher learning, public and private, large and small denominational and non-denominational, all have a unique contribution to offer in solving the many problems of teacher education.

The president of this institution is cooperating with the national survey of the education of teachers in an inquiry addressed to collegiate staffs, instructional and administrative. The questions are relatively few in number, readily answerable, and have been carefully selected with due regard to their relevancy to the problems being attacked. The identity of neither the individual nor the institution will appear since individual returns are merged in group studies.

Since this inquiry pertains to the education of teachers, participation on the part of those members of the instructional staff having classes attended by prospective teachers or teachers in service is especially requested. The increasing attention of the public, the press and the research investigators to issues of contemporary higher education evinces the importance of its problems. This bulletin when filled out will provide additional facts upon which to base solutions.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Braswell have returned from Clarendon where they visited at the home of their son, Sam M. Braswell, and also visited relatives in Fort Worth and Amarillo.

Funds have been practically completed by local citizens and interested parties in Amarillo for the purpose of sending the Buffalo basketball team, the tallest team in the world, to the Kansas City amateur tournament which starts next week. Committees were at work Tuesday in Canyon, and with the assistance of Jerry Malin of the Amarillo News-Globe and Dr. Parcells of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, added to the fund in Amarillo yesterday.

Ray Campbell stated this morning that the fund was not yet sufficiently large to take care of all of the expenses of the trip. Practically enough has been raised to take nine members of the squad, but it was found yesterday that meals for the boys would not be furnished while in Kansas City as has been the practice in the past, so that additional funds must be secured today. Coach S. D. Burton would like to take more than nine men on the trip, but will be guided by the amount of money raised.

All members of the Buffalo team have recovered from the flu, and are working daily in the Buffalo gym, preparing for the grueling task ahead of them in Kansas City. Only the best and fastest teams of the middle west will assemble there, and the Buffs will be up against the fastest field they have faced this season.

AUDITOR SAYS CITY IN VERY FINE SHAPE

$17,500.00 BETTER OFF THAN A YEAR AGO.

Has Reduced Water Costs From 23.8c to 20.6c Per Thousand in Year—Records Good.

G. A. Sahli & Co., auditors, have completed the annual audit of the city's books, and have filed with the commission the report. It was noted by the auditor that the city of Canyon was $17,500 better off than it was a year ago when the annual audit was made. The complete audit is on file at the city hall for the inspection of any citizen who desires to inspect it. The bonded indebtedness of the city is now $81,000 and the assets are listed as $208,411.76. Mayor R. A. Bellah stated yesterday that the city commission was highly pleased with the report, a part of which will be printed at an early date in order to show the citizens the financial condition of the city.

The auditor's report showed that the cost of water for the city's plant is now 20.6c per thousand gallons as compared with 23.8c a year ago.

Tax collections have declined during the past three years as follows: in 1929, 92 percent; in 1930, 85 percent; in 1931, 77 percent.

The auditors noted that the books and records of the city were in excellent condition.

Dairymen in Monthly Meeting Hear Report on Milk Situation

The regular monthly business meeting of the Randall County Dairymen's Association was held in the district court room Tuesday night, with an attendance of 25 members. P. C. Bennett, county agent of Potter county and Roy Burke, manager of the Pool creamery plant in Amarillo were present and addressed the association.

Mr. Burke discussed the milk situation and the new regulation governing the surplus of milk at this time.

Tickets to the annual banquet were distributed to those members present. It was stated that those members of the association who were not at the meeting Tuesday night will have until March 19 to pay for tickets to the banquet. Members of the association who were not present should reserve their tickets within the next few days. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the banquet committee or the association secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Porter of Silverton spent Sunday and Sunday night in the home of their son, E. H. Porter. They were enroute home after a trip to New Mexico. O'Neal Porter accompanied her grandparents to their home for a few days visit.

Dr. J. A. Hill Returns From a Trip to the East

Dr. J. A. Hill returned Sunday after an absence of three weeks during which he had attended a meeting of the Southwest Section of the Texas State Teachers Association at San Benito, and had met with R. T. Ellis and the chairman of the State Board of Education at San Antonio, and had attended two national meetings at Washington, D. C.

While at Washington, President Hill sat in on the committee meetings of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, and the one point on which the organization did not consider the West Texas State Teachers College fully up to standard was explained and the condition removed. The college is now rated as a standard Class A teachers college without a single condition.

Dr. Hill stated that the program of the American Association of Teachers Colleges was undoubtedly the best he had ever attended. There were representatives of teachers colleges from every section of the United States and the program, which was prepared by President J. H. Whitley of Texas was really national in its scope. A. B. Mayhew, president of the Teachers College Board of Regents of Texas, was the only member of such a board present.

Following the meeting of the American Association, President Hill attended the meeting of the National Education Association. Every school man who was present there was thinking of the problem of keeping the schools of the United States up to standard during the present economic crisis. All thought that unless the people could be convinced of the grave importance of keeping their children's educational opportunities up to standard, the schools would suffer so much that they could not recover for a generation or more.

A visit to Gettysburg, Annapolis and Baltimore were interesting features of Dr. Hill's trip. He also spent some time listening to the deliberations of Congress and was much impressed with the earnest efforts which are being made to reach a solution of the urgent problems now confronting the American people. He said "I have always thought from what I have read in the newspapers that most of the time of the senate and house was spent in political bickering, but I found that a small matter and earnest work the rule." He was especially impressed with the wide information of Carter Glass of Virginia.

In closing his report of his trip, Dr. Hill said that when he neared home he was again reminded that to him Canyon is the best and dearest place in the world.

State Employment Questionnaires Filled Out Here

Every state employee on the campus received last week an employment blank to be filled out. Each employee is required to fill out this blank showing in detail his specific duties, his rate of pay and additional remunerations, the actual number of hours he works per day, and number days lost because of sickness or vacation. In addition he must stipulate the number of people dependent upon him for their livelihood, the number of years that he has been employed by the state, and he must state the four most important positions held prior to his employment by the state. He is required to state facts regarding his high school, college, and university training, and the number and nature of degrees he holds. He is asked to set down any suggestions as to how his specific work might be improved. This questionnaire is sent out to the state institutions by members of both houses of the legislature.

This questionnaire is one of many that have been received here recently. One such questionnaire was compiled for the Board of Regents by all teachers colleges of Texas. The main points of the questionnaire dealt with faculty qualifications and other data, class size, cost of accounting data, floor space occupied by college, student data, faculty time data, and inventory of college property. About twenty copies of this voluminous report were made, one for each of the teachers colleges of Texas and one for the Board of Regents. The work was done through the office of Dean of the College.

J. M. Craig and family, Alfred Bellah and family and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bellah spent Sunday afternoon visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hurst.

MUSEUM FUND DRIVE STARTS ON MARCH 28

HENRY ANSLEY WILL ASSIST IN FINAL CAMPAIGN.

Committee Meeting in Amarillo Yesterday Sees Success for Building—End Drive April 8th.

The final drive for the museum fund of the Panhandle-Historical Society will start March 28th and will close at the Annual banquet of the Society which will be held in Canyon on April 8th. With about $18,000 already subscribed, the final drive will be made for $7,000 to complete the total of $25,000 which must be raised by citizens of the Plains to match the $25,000 appropriation made by the last session of the legislature.

The Amarillo News-Globe has offered to the directors the services of Henry Ansley from March 28th to April 8th for the purpose of putting on the final campaign. The money so far raised has largely been solicited through the efforts of L. F. Sheffy and President T. D. Hobart of the Society.

Attending the meeting yesterday were Mr. Hobart, Gene Howe, Wilbur Hawk, Mrs. Olive K. Dixon, W. H. Patrick, Col. R. P. Smyth, Horace M. Russell, Dr. J. A. Hill, and Mr. Sheffy. All of the directors were highly elated over the prospects of securing the building. It was pointed out that the appropriation will expire on August 31, and if not used by that time will revert to the state treasury, and cannot be used unless again appropriated by the legislature. It is therefore necessary that immediate action be taken to secure the total $25,000 locally for the purpose of matching the state's appropriation.

It is stated that construction of the building should start by at least June 1st, for the purpose of completing the work before the 31st of August.

Leap Year Party Brings a Large Crowd to Canyon

Saturday was Leap Year Day in Canyon, and a large number of citizens came to take advantage of the numerous offers made by the business houses of the city. All of the business houses report splendid business during the day, as the most perfect weather brought citizens from all parts of the county.

A number of the business houses offered free gifts to those whose automobile numbers had been drawn and placed on display in the various stores. Practically all of the prizes were claimed during the afternoon.

Chamber of Commerce officials were highly pleased at the result of the day, and we believe that the regular monthly Trades Day will be resumed during the coming year.

ATTENDED FUNERAL AT HEREFORD SUNDAY P. M.

A number of Canyon people attended the funeral of Rev. Bollinghouse at Hereford Sunday afternoon. Rev. Bollinghouse, formerly was pastor of the First Christian Church of Hereford, but was serving a pastorate at Wichita Falls at the time of his death.

Miss Lura Brown of Lubbock visited in the E. C. Prichard home a few days this week.

CANYON LABOR SHOULD HAVE FIRST PREFERENCE

Various kinds of people have been soliciting Canyon the past few weeks, seeking all kinds of jobs. In too many cases they are asking for the same kind of work that could be done by Canyon people who are needing jobs very badly. The fly-by-night out of town man comes and goes when he collects his money, leaving no assurance that his work will stand up. If you have work give it to Canyon men, who need it, and who will be responsible for their labors.

The same is true of those who are peddling various kinds of merchandise in Canyon, representing out of town firms.

The same is true of those who are soliciting printing, which goes to out of town firms, and is returned c. o. d.

Never before has Canyon needed so badly all of the available cash of the community spent at home and with local people. It is the only way that a better town may be built under these trying conditions.

The city of Canyon is again offering the summer irrigation rate to the citizens, and most of the home-owners will take advantage of the lowered rates. The city has extended reduced rates to the public schools and to the court house in order that the lawns of the two institutions might be beautified. The citizens appreciate this very much. These are the only rates ever extended by the city, excepting the regular irrigation rates. All who have used water in quantities have paid the same as every citizen, so the records at the city hall reveal. The question of water rates in Canyon is one that will probably never be settled satisfactorily to the citizens. Canyon has a high water rate, no one denies this. At the same time Canyon is about the only city on the Plains which does not have a sewer charge, and the city has been noted for years as having the lowest tax rate of any town its size, public improvements considered. Every administration which has made a study of the water rates has come to the same conclusion—that if the water rates are lowered, then a sewer charge must be added, and the tax rate increased. So the reduction of water rates would primarily be the process of reducing the load to those who use water, and increasing the load for those who pay taxes. The renter would get the benefit, but the man who owns the rent house would have higher taxes to pay, and would therefore, if he equalizes the overhead, be forced to increase his rent, or just be out that amount of money. Every administration has come to the conclusion that it is better to have a low tax rate, which would benefit the owners of property than to have a lower water rate, as it is well known that few renters would make any use of a lower water rate in beautifying the city.

Congratulations to Sad Sam Burton and his gang of six-footers for another T. I. A. A. championship. The fans regretted that Daniel Baker did not see fit to come up Friday and Saturday to take the pair of whippings slated for them, as the Buff score would have looked better in the percentage column to have another hundred added to their total for the season. However, that's o. k. since the conference championship is safely tucked under the Buffalo belt, and only one of the tall boys are on the graduation list for this year. If the money can be raised, the team may go to the amateur national tournament at Kansas City in two weeks, where the boys should give a good account of themselves. However, at the present time, the coach and most of his team are nursing the flu, which must first be thoroughly conquered before they think of going any place.

Ex-Governor Pat Neff has been elected president of Baylor University, and will likely accept the post. He has been chairman of the board of directors for many years and knows as much about Baylor and its needs as any man. It is well known that Neff has not been happy in his job as railroad commissioner. Strife and dissension has prevailed the past year. If Neff should resign from his post soon, it would be necessary to name his successor in the July primary, in which case two members of the commission will be named, since the term of office of C. V. Terrell expires.

It is reliably reported that Governor Sterling has offered to Col. Ernest O. Thompson, mayor of Amarillo, the place on the Railroad Commission which will be vacated by ex-Governor Pat Neff. Col. Thompson is noted for his fight against the utilities, and it is the Railroad Commission which has the power to make recommendations for adequate rates. It is stated that Col. Thompson will withdraw from the race for congressman-at-large and accept the place. He will be forced to seek the place in either the July primary, or in the November election, depending upon the time that Neff files his resignation.

John L. McCarty, editor of the Dalhart Texan, has been awarded first place in the state of Texas for Community Service through his newspaper by the department of journalism, Baylor University. The Texan is well known as one of the progressive country newspapers in Texas, and the award is in recognition of the splendid work that John is doing. Canyon folks feel mighty proud of this recognition of John, who was an outstanding student in the College several years ago, and is well known to all of the citizens.

It is no secret that the friends of Governor Sterling are scared and many of them are advising the Governor not to seek a second term. The man in office this year must stand all of the cussing for existing conditions, whether or not he had the least thing in the world to do with these conditions. Governor Sterling will be charged with all of the misfortunes of Texas, and Jim Ferguson knows how to make out his political case. Should the Governor decide not to enter the race, then Senator Clint C. Small will announce the minute that the Governor formally states his withdrawal.

When good Democrats get together, they end up with a row. That is what happened at San Antonio—a wet and dry row; a Sterling and Ferguson fight. From the outside, everything was apparently peaceful, but behind the scenes there was plenty of hair pulling as to who should be the big gun of the Garner rally. They could not agree, so decided there would be no big gun. However, from all indications, Texas will be safely in the Garner bandwagon in spite of all the internal strife of the various would-be leaders.

Concern is being felt over the life of the Chinese elms on the Plains. They were recommended a few years ago as being the real tree for this country. Now they are being condemned as of very doubtful value, and of short life. That's the way with life, just when things are looking good, someone comes along and upsets all hope.

The report for the Texas penitentiary for the past year is most favorable. Since Lee Simmons has been placed in control, conditions have improved. Simmons is a business man who knows how to do things, and is in a place which requires the efforts of a business executive.

The auto owner pays, and pays, and pays—twelve times in so many different kinds of taxes—and now congress is about to put on a general sales tax. The horse and buggy days may return from the case of necessity.

The most erratic politician will have his inning this year. The fellow who makes the biggest promises to do the biggest things even though he knows it is all bunk, will catch the ear of the dissatisfied public.

The United States will quit writing notes and start to building armament if Japan keeps on the war game in China. Perhaps that is the quickest way to prevail upon the Japs that we mean business.

No matter what happens in China, the admiration of the world goes to the plucky Chin for the fight he is putting up against terrible odds.

WEST CIRCLE IS HOSTESS TO EAST CIRCLE

The West Circle of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union entertained the members of the East Circle at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Howard Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Ethel Cole. A brief business session was held and after the reading of the minutes by Mrs. Charles Stratton, a song service was led by W. W. Earnest. The group sang "At Calvary" and "Count Thy Blessings."

Rev. Howard then spoke to the W. M. U. members taking his subject from Philippians 4:11-14 where Paul said "I have learned to be content." He used the ancient myth of Atlanta's Race to illustrate the point that some people are always discontented, forever desiring more than they have and more than they need. "Contentment is a great thing," he said in conclusion.

Mrs. J. D. Key and Mrs. R. T. Bowman expressed the society's appreciation for the services rendered the W. M. U. by Mrs. Margaret Harris as president of Circle I.

Mrs. Harris then invited the group to go to the yard where some pictures were made of the W. M. U. workers. After returning to the house refreshments of cake and cocoa were served. An Easter lily motif was developed by Mrs. Harris in the refreshment course.

Those present were: Mrs. A. K. Goodman, Mrs. A. N. Burgan, Mrs. I. M. Steen, Mrs. G. B. Heath, Mrs. M. M. Wester, Mrs. S. L. Terry, Mrs. R. T. Bowman, Mrs. C. S. Pinson, Mrs. G. W. Johnson, Mrs. A. J. Bryant, Mrs. J. D. Key, Mrs. S. B. McClure, Mrs. R. W. Ratcliff, Mrs. J. J. Pinson, Mrs. M. F. Couch, Mrs. T. S. Furlow, Mrs. W. J. Hinkle, Mrs. Nettie Eastwood, Mrs. Ethel Cole, Mrs. Chas. Stratton, Mrs. Ed Phillips, Mrs. Cleveland Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Earnest.

It was announced there will be no circle meeting next week as it will be the Week of Prayer. All members are invited to meet at the church next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and to bring a covered dish. Mrs. Manjeot, association president of W. M. U. of Hereford, and Mrs. Mae E. Abbott, Mexican missionary from Bovina are to be guests at the meeting.

STUDY CLASS STUDIES JAPAN AT MEET TUESDAY

The Study class of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met at the church Tuesday afternoon for an interesting lesson on missionary work and conditions in Japan led by Mrs. C. L. Thompson. During the lesson it was brought out that only a small percent of the people have been reached by the Christian religion, but that those who have been influenced by it are not in sympathy with their aggressive warfare in China. Though there has been some destruction of mission property, there has been no loss of life among the missionaries who are now in that country.

Members present were: Mesdames Shanklin, Cleavenger, Biggers, Knight, Bills, Kunze, Thompson and Black. After the program coffee was served and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Spring Silhouette Is Neat, Well-Defined

NEW FROCKS, MANY OF THEM RAYON COMBINATIONS, HAVE FEW FURBELLOWS BUT ARE FINE FOR GENERAL WEAR

BY HARRIET

SPRING may be still around the corner, technically, but with the weather as mild as this winter is, a woman's thoughts already are turning to spring clothes.

The new silhouette is neat, wide-shouldered, well-defined. It has shed all its fluttering odds and ends and even ties up its scarfs into neat bows, knots, or loops them through slits in coats and dresses.

It is smart this spring to be "roughing" it in spongy fabrics, many of them mixtures of rayon and cotton or rayon and wool.

When you select the style you want, suit your own personality. If you are the aloof, self-contained type of person who enjoys looking most lady-like and well-groomed, you can have a little suit that accentuates this quality of yours.

Such a one is a new black formal afternoon suit of a new crinkle crepe, Biarritz. This suit uses the diagonal line in its trimming of smoky blue, buttons of composition in a shade exactly matching the blue fox on the sleeves. The skirt is quite tight until it flares quite low and the upper part fits down over the skirt to hipline.

The sleeves are set in, slantwise, and the upper part fastens by buttoning down one shoulder seam, instead of the front. Worn with this are gloves, hat and shoes of black.

If you are a sportswoman, or a school girl, there is a new type of suit which seemingly was designed for you. It is made of red spun rayon fabric, which has an all-over diamond pattern in its weave that is very rich and pretty. There is a skirt of quite straight-line cut, buttoning up the sides. The little short-sleeved blouse of white is a new spun rayon pique, and it has a scarf that is monogrammed, quite the latest touch.

The pull-over jumper belts at a slightly high waistline and then fits down over the skirt to a rather high hipline. This dress illustrates the short-waisted spring style that most new frocks and suits adopt.

The formal afternoon suit of black crinkle crepe, shown at left, is trimmed with blue fox and composition buttons in harmonizing blue shade. In the costume at right, the skirt and jumper are of red spun rayon fabric, with an interesting diamond pattern. The short-sleeved white blouse is a new spun rayon pique. Note the monogrammed scarf. Also the pull-on beige gloves, which promise to be very popular this spring.

The hat is made of the suit's material, with white straw, a nice combination for both wearability and beauty. Pull-on beige gloves are the choice for this costume, as they promise to be very popular this spring with dresses, suits, sports things and coat outfits.

Both of these costumes spell spring. But both illustrate what definite types of women will wear. Choose your own type!

College Orchestra, Otis Truelove on Chapel Programs

The third of a series of Washington programs was given by the orchestra at the assembly period Saturday. The music of Washington's day was divided into two general classes, the dance music and the military music. The first selection, Schubert's "March Militaire No. 2" expressed the military spirit of the day. The next number, the Second Movement of "Military Symphony" composed by Hayden, who was born on the same day as Washington, was also an expression of the military phase of that day. It is interesting to note that Hayden's orchestra, famous in both Europe and America, was composed of only about twenty-eight or thirty members.

Turning from the military to the social side of the age, the orchestra played Mozart's "Minuet" from the "Jupiter Symphony." The most popular music was the state-ly minuet which often formed a part of a symphony giving a light, monotonous breaking touch. Jazz at that time was not so popular, though it was played in France.

The concluding number on the program was the "Celebrated Minuet" by the Italian Bocherini, also a contemporary of Washington. Judge Otis Truelove, Amarillo attorney, spoke before the assembly Tuesday morning February 23, having as his subject "Washington's Life." He showed how policies adhered to by Washington were equally as applicable to our lives. He stated in the course of his lecture that it is to Washington that we owe the establishment in deeds of many of the present day policies that Americans point to with pride.

Expert Advice On Advertising Harvard and Northwestern Universities, after devoting considerable study to the amount of advertising certain lines of business should carry, in a report say: "It is no longer a theory to be proved, but an established fact that gross sales will increase directly with an increase in advertising, psychological attitude of the buying public to the contrary notwithstanding. If the merchant wants more business, he should use advertising as a horse and not as a cart, he must advertise first and count his percentage afterwards."

"Some merchants have preconceived ideas as to the unusual nature of their business, and interpose the objection that an average does not apply to their case, but these averages are taken from thousands of retail stores over the United States, from which figures are available, and there are no special cases that might affect the average. Furthermore, the stores that approach this idea are the successful ones."

Their figures are on the percentage to the gross annual business as given out is as follows: grocery stores 1; general stores, 1; haberdashers, 3.3; women's wear shops, 3.1; furniture, 6.1; general merchandise, 1.5; drug stores, 1; department stores, 1.9 to 3.1; cleaning and dyeing, 3.3; electric shops, 2.7; hardware, 1; jewelry, 3.1; meat markets, 1; florists, 5; millinery, 2.2; music stores, 3.3; restaurants, 3.1; specialty stores, 3.8; Painters.

Terracing Made a Big Difference. Three stacks of feed on the farm of M. H. Koelzer, 3 1/2 miles east of Hereford, containing milo maize heads from eight acres, threshed out 360 bushels of grain. The interesting feature of the stacks of heads, is that they grew with almost an identical amount of moisture on the same piece of ground that produced a failure just the year before.

The only difference was that the land was terraced before planting the 1931 crop, while in 1930 the land lay in its natural formation. The terracing caused the water from rainfall to flow so slowly that the greater part of it that ordinarily is wasted by washing rapidly away, was held on the land and growing crop to result in a positive yield.

During the past several years an increasing number of farmers are using the simple process of terracing to check the flow of surface moisture and conserve it for growing pastures and crops. County Agent R. O. Dunkle has been instrumental in interesting Deaf Smith county farmers in this saving of moisture and increased production possibilities. — Hereford Brand.

Clarence has been a very outstanding and consistent calf club member for a period of six years. His show ring winnings are too numerous to list, but a summary of his State Fair winnings shows that he has won five firsts, eight seconds, one fourth, one ninth, and three championships including the Junior Champion Bull in open classes in 1931 on a yearling of his own breeding. At several county fairs his winnings were equally as good.

Of equal importance to Clarence's show ring record is the record of development of a purebred herd in partnership with his father. There were no purebreds on the farm when Clarence entered club work, but now there are 14 head, 11 of which are owned by Clarence and 3 by his father.

Dean Green stated that she was having a pleasant time and expected to return next Wednesday.

Predicts Rains With Bottle

Gln Chow, Lompoc Valley, Calif., rancher, is said to be able to forecast weather by observing sun and moon rings through the glass of a broken beer bottle, and by studying his record of the weather 60 years ago. According to Chow, weather occurs in an exact 60-year cycle. Every rain this winter has been predicted months ahead by Chow, his followers say.

SOIL EROSION IS
MENACE TO COUNTRY

Erosion of soil in the United States is far more widespread and vicious than has been supposed, even by soil workers, and it has destructive possibilities almost beyond human comprehension. H. H. Bennett, soil scientist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said at a Farm and Home Week meeting at Madison, Wis., today.

He called attention to the terrible waste of the great natural resource, the soil, citing instances from Wisconsin and other States. "Remember," he said "that erosion has modified the surface of the earth more than the combined activities of volcanoes, earthquakes, tidal waves, tornadoes and all the excavations of mankind since the beginning of history."

"We have pointed fingers of warning toward China as a terrifying example of wasted agricultural lands. The devastation in that old, old country has indeed been appalling. Notwithstanding these terrifying examples of wastage the United States, this youthful country of ours, is depleting its agricultural lands faster than any other race or nation, barbaric, civilized or enlightened, ever did."

"Fully 75 per cent of all the land in cultivation in the United States is affected in some degree by erosion. The injury is much more serious, of course, in some sections than others, but it is universally harmful."

"It takes nature at least 400 years to build one single inch of the priceless topsoil of some of our important types of farm land, as for example the Shelby loam of Missouri and Iowa, an important type of Corn Belt land. It takes just seven years under continuous corn in northern Missouri for one inch of the Shelby loam to wash off land having a slope of about four feet in a hundred, and only one year to remove the same depth from land sloping eight feet in a hundred—this by actual measurement of the soil washed off the slopes. No business can withstand such losses."

Mr. Bennett made an important distinction between land impoverished by heavy continuous cropping and that destroyed or washed away by erosion.

"The plant food removed from the fields and pastures of America every year by erosion is at least 21 times more than that removed by the crops harvested. That taken by crops can be restored in the form of fertilizer, but that taken by erosion can not be restored, because this malevolent process takes the whole body of the soil, plant food and all. Land impoverished strictly by plant food depletion, as sometimes results from continuous growing of the clean tilled crops, is not worn-out land; the only worn-out land that we have is that which has been so badly washed that it would be entirely futile to undertake to reclaim it."

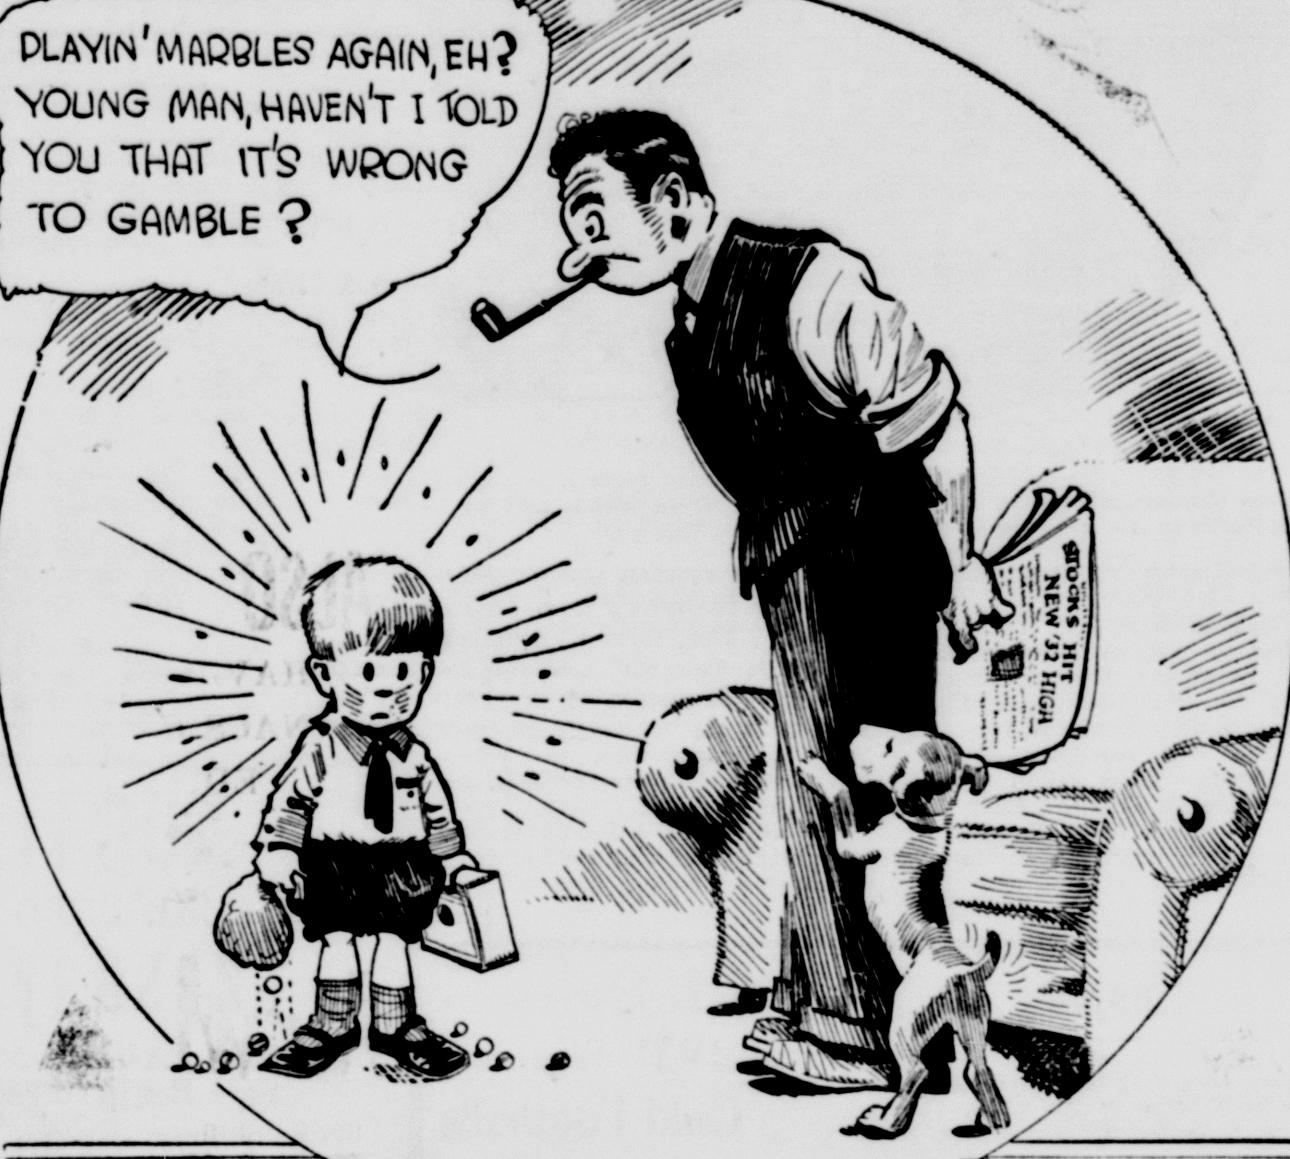

Although he sees no immediate danger of a land shortage in the United States, Mr. Bennett made an important point regarding the land in use and subject to erosion. This is, that as erosion continues, land becomes less and less productive and that eventually "it will be impossible to gain from the stubborn soil a respectable living."

"The department of Agriculture, co-operating with the States, is establishing soil erosion experiment stations in the various major agricultural and soil regions of the country having sloping topography. The purpose is to work out the fundamental principles relative to erosional processes and to determine the most effective practical means for controlling or slowing down these unbearable losses."

Thus far, eight of these experiment stations have been established and a site located and acquired for the ninth. These stations are at Clarinda, Iowa; Tyler, Kans.; Bethany, Mo.; Statesville, N. C.; Guthrie, Okla.; Temple, Texas; Tyler, Texas; and Pullman, Wash.

"Control of the erosion problem," Mr. Bennett said, "is a matter of correct land usage and correct land protection. Much poor land

COLONEL LINDBERGH
REVEALS HIS SECRET

"I came to the conclusion that if I knew the difference between the right way to do a thing and the wrong way to do it, it was up to me to train myself to do it the right thing at all times," writes Colonel Lindbergh, according to an exchange. "So I drew up a list of character factors. At night I would read off my list of character factors, and those which I had fulfilled satisfactorily during the day I would mark with a red cross. Those I had not been called upon to demonstrate that day would get no mark. But those character factors which I had actually violated each day I would mark with a black cross."

"I began to check myself from day to day and to compare my black and whites from month to month and year to year. I was glad to notice an improvement as I grew older."

Here is a list of his character factors, which are nearly all positive and constructive:

HIAWATHA 1932

On the shores of Coca-Cola
Dwelt the Moxies in their wigwag,
Old Sapolio, the Chieftain,
Pebecco, the Grizzled Prophet,
And the warriors young and eager.

In the lodge of the old Chieftain,
With Unedda, more than mother,
And Victrola, old and feeble,
Lived the warmest of the maidens,
Musterole, Sapolia's daughter,
Musterole, the Sunkist Chiclet.

All the young men sought her favor,
Left their troubles at her wigwag,
Brought her Thermos skins for raiment.

Brought her Tarvia for ointment,
And sweet Musterole smiled on them.

Smiled on Listerine and Valspar,
Smiled but left them unrequited,
For her love she gave to no one.

Then from Multibestos Mountains
From the far heights of Texaco,
Came the young chief, Instant

Postum
Mightiest hunter in the forest,
All superb in strength and beauty,

He it was who trapped the Kodak
He who shot the great Sears
Roebuck,

Shot him with his swift Pierce
Arrow,
Eversharp, his trusty hatchet,

Every aflow head a Hot Point,
O'er him gazed the Moxie maidens,
Nujol poured her glowing glances,
Bald Carbona sought to win him,
Topkis brought him cakes and honey.

But for Musterole yearned Postum,
No Pyrene could quench the ardor
That she kindled in his bosom.

Through the field of ripe
Wheatena
Through the Shredded Wheat
They wandered.

By the rippling Cuticura,
There beneath Palmolive shadows
From the bough she picked the Grape Nuts.

There they saw the sun descending
Naught cared Postum for the night wind.

Blowing through the Holeproof
forests,
Musterole was there beside him.

To his bosom quick he drew her,

Whispered words of love aburning,
Told her how he caught the Seal
Fax,
Told her how he'd slain Bull
Durham.

Told her how he'd trapped Ampico,
Boasted of his father's tepee,
With its sides of Mentholatum
With its wings of soft Socony.

To him Musterole, a-quiver Listened, and her heart gave answer.

All the warmth of love she gave him.
All her Rubberset affection,
Gave her heart to Instant
Postum.

There he wooed her, there he won her.
Passed the years in quick succession:

Small Post Toasties came to bless them,
Triplets, B. V. D., Gold Dust
Twins,

Little Beach Nut, Wrigley
Spearmint,
Vici Kid and Pluto Water.

These and other little Toasties Filled the wigwag with their laughter.

MINT SLOWS UP

Uncle Sam can commiserate with his nephews and nieces. He also is not making as much money as in the good old days of prosperity. The effect on him is twofold for he is both going into and slowing up production in his money mills.

The situation presents a paradox. During a depression the need for money is greater and yet not so great. That is, everybody is broke but there is so little money in circulation that the demands upon the mints and bureau of printing and engraving are less frequent.

For several weeks the Philadelphia mint has been dependent for business upon the striking of gold coins for Christmas gift purposes. It supplied the banks with $22,000.00 in $20 gold pieces.

The unemployment situation in the money mills is made more acute by a sudden slump in the demand for anniversary coins, medals and other commemorative pieces. The nation is occupied with more serious things.

This lessened demand for money is not confined to the United States. Latin-American countries, which have their currency minted in the United States are ordering less coinage.

If you are real hard up for cash but have a few odds and ends in gold lying around, the mint can help you out. If your gold junk is worth $100 or more, the mint will melt it up into double eagles and stamp it with the insignia of the Republic.

The man whose conscience never troubles him must have it pretty well trained.

You have got to tell 'em if you want to sell 'em! ADVERTISE!!

Clubs

Spanish

The Spanish Club was entertained Monday by a very interesting program on Spanish Art and literature. The program consisted of: "Diego Velazquez de Silva," by Lena Wade Jennings; "Bizet," by Forest Hill; Blasco Ibanez, by June Smith.

As some of the members were absent the program was short and Miss Foster gave a discussion of a few other famous authors and painters.

Press

The Press Club is continuing the study of some of the well known newspaper men by gathering material on their lives and newspaper articles written by them.

Among the ones found that are the most interesting is Floyd Gibbons, who is now in Shanghai and who sends back interesting reports on his observations. The club has followed his work for some time.

Arthur Bisbane and Will Rogers were discussed for the first time by the club in Monday's program. The club plans to continue these programs.

Domestic Art

The Domestic Art Club gave an interesting program Monday on how to make block prints. After the program, the members exchanged criticisms and a candy making party was planned for Thursday night.

Debate

The Canyon High School Debate club started the season with a program in chapel Friday.

The club's first interscholastic debate was March 2nd with the Amarillo boys. The girls will debate Amarillo on March 16th.

Many other debates will be scheduled in the two months that remain of the season. Canyon was slow in beginning her season, but the debaters expect to do well in the University Interscholastic League Tournament to be held April 20th and 21st.

C. H. S. Debaters Are in Chapel

The chapel program Friday was a debate given by the Debating Club.

Those taking part in the debate were Maxine Wallace and Kathryn Robinson for the affirmative and Curtis Bell and Vincent Lockhart for the negative. The subject of the debate, which is furnished by the Interscholastic League was, "Resolved, That lobbying, as practiced by the American people is detrimental."

Oliver Grabbe presided over the debate.

The debate was opened by the first affirmative speaker, Kathryn Robinson. She told what lobbying really is, what it formerly was and what it is at the present time. The first negative speaker, Vincent Lockhart, made the reply to the first affirmative speaker. The second affirmative speaker, Maxine Wallace, carried the question further and showed where lobbying is detrimental. The second negative speaker, Curtis Bell, made the reply to the affirmative speakers. The rebuttals closed the debate. No decision was rendered.

The debating teams with boys and girls, are progressing nicely under the direction of J. D. Hazlewood. The debating teams should bring the debating cup to Canyon Hi this year.

"EL CIRCULO CASTELLANO"

The Spanish department of Canyon High School has made rapid progress in its work since its organization four years ago. It is one of the oldest clubs in the school.

The Spanish Club is very interesting to everyone. Many enjoyable programs have been given in chapel, and at each meeting programs of various kinds are given. A strong spirit of co-operation is instilled in the pupils by participating in these programs. The Club has had many enjoyable picnics and parties.

The department has done much in various instructive lines that is out of the ordinary. Spanish conversations and the caroling of Christmas songs they learned.

The Spanish Club "El Circulo Castellano," hopes to continue to grow and improve each year.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

With Frank Wykoff, Vic Williams and Gene Venzke Entered in 1932 Olympic Track Events, the 100, 400 and 1500-Meter Races Should Be "In the Bag"

BY PHILIP MARTIN

SUPPOSE the fellow who makes winter books on the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont and other rich turf stakes, would fix us one on the 1932 Olympic games coming to Los Angeles about six months from now. I confess I might be tempted to "play" a few "hot tips"—on the nose, too.

At odds of, say, five-to-one, I might be convinced that Gene Venzke is a good bet to win the Olympic 1500-meters. I might even lay $10 that he wins it. After he had won the 1500—and he will—I'd get a refund of $50. Not bad!

Now for the sake of this story, we'll say they're quoting Frank Wykoff at eight-to-one to win the 100-meter dash. I'd be tempted to put my 60 bucks on Wykoff's nose—and he'd refund me $540 for his triumph. I'm doing pretty well, huh?

But there's still another on my three-horse parlay. Vic Williams ought to win the 400-meters. He's down in the books at eight-to-one. I put the 540 iron men on Vic. He wins!

Who said there was a depression? In one winter afternoon I've built a ten-spot up to $4860. Well, I'll be seeing you. I'm taking a long vacation.

BUT they don't make winter books on the Olympic races. And perhaps it's for the best. Olympic sports generally are clean. When so many other sports are soiled, it's fine to have something clean and fresh.

Still, I stated my choices in all seriousness. Venzke, during the past few weeks, has shown enough to make him the favorite in the 1500-meter run. Two record breaking miles—the first in 4:11.1-5 and the second in 4:10 aren't run every winter, or every 10 winters.

Wykoff has not tested his speed as yet this year. Neither has Williams. Both are working into condition slowly, aiming to reach their peaks in mid-summer. Wykoff will represent Southern California's track squad until he graduates in June. After that he'll probably enter the Olympic trials as a member of the Los Angeles A. C.

Williams recently started training after recovering from an operation. The former Southern California flyer who tied the accepted world record in the 440-yard dash last summer, declares he feels stronger than ever. When interviewed recently, he said he had gained weight. That's a good sign. He won't train down fine too quickly and be past his peak before the Olympic games.

Senior Carnival Makes Hit With C. H. S. Students

The Senior Carnival held at the high school Thursday night was a great success. Several clever, as well as entertaining booths were prepared by the classes.

The crowning of the queen at the follies was the main feature of the evening. When the curtain was drawn, on the throne sat Nannie Archer, the senior queen. To her left stood her escort, Edwin Dutton. To his left stood the freshmen celebrities, Mary May Harrison and T. J. McDonald. To the queen's right stood Louise Watson and George Brasuel, junior celebrities, and to their right the sophomore couple, Mary Dowlen and Frances Elliston. In front of the queen's group sat their gypsy entertainers.

The following was presented: Song—Gypsy group. Violin solo—Oscar Croson. Tap dance—Frances Usery. Spanish dance—Eulalie Moore, Wilma Harris. Gypsy dance—Mary Hines. Song—Gypsy group.

Chapels

The chapel program Thursday was in charge of the Latin Club which is under the supervision of Miss Jordan.

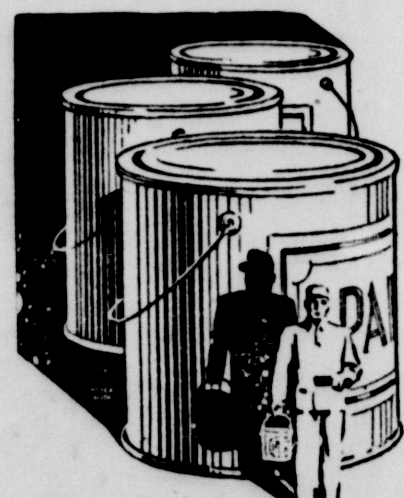

The numbers on the program were introduced by Gladys Hendrix. The first number on the program was a piano solo by Fredda Charles Bills. A one-act play, "Ira Nympharum" with the following people participating was given: Pat Cochran, Jewell Chambers, Fredda Charles Bills, Jean Burgess, Rubye Foster and Thelma Bryant. A dance by Thelma Bryant, Rubye Foster, Jewell Chambers and Jean Burgess followed the play. The last number was a piano solo, "Ben Hur's Chariot Race" by Jean Burgess.

Senior Students Study Vocations

A series of some of the most interesting programs given in C. H. S. is now being given in Mr. Carruth's senior home room.

Several weeks ago this home room began a series of vocation programs with a talk on that subject by Dr. Harris M. Cook of the College. Since then, at each meeting one member is on the program with a talk on the vocation he or she prefers. In these talks such points as the nature of the profession, its advantages and disadvantages, training and preparations necessary, qualifications, the chance to rise, and the rewards of such a vocation are considered and discussed.

As well as being interesting, the members of this home room find these programs very instructive and helpful in choosing a vocation for themselves.

The junior class sponsored a box supper at the high school Tuesday evening. The funds were used in the contest over class celebrities.

The gaining of self-confidence is the first step toward success. The fact that we are capable of success, and the knowledge of that fact, inspires us to put all we have in the attempt.

If we start with the idea of "can't" we generally end beaten. We fail to take every chance and opportunity because the fear of failing is more prominent in our minds than the assurance of success.

Everyone of us can cultivate our minds and learn to apply ourselves to the extent that we can place the idea of success far above the fear of failure.

In the past the man who dreamed of "I can" has been the one who won out in the end. Many of our famous inventors, Watt, Fulton, Bell, Edison, and others, suffered defeats before they reached their ultimate goal of success. If they had stopped after the first effort and said, "I can't," the world of today would not be so wonderful, and their names would not stand out in the memory of nations.

"Why not 'dig in' our school work with the spirit of 'I can, and I will'?" It is the surest road to success.

Health Is At Your Open Window

Oxygen is necessary to breathing. Oxygen is taken from the air by a gas flame just the same as by any other kind of flame. Fresh air supplies oxygen.

So, for your health's sake, let a little fresh air in.

If you must have a fire to dress by, have it in another room. If you live in a small apartment and sleep in your living room, turn out the fire and raise the windows when you go to bed.

Water Heaters Without Flue Pipes Are A Menace

Many gas appliances, including some well-constructed room heaters, are safe to use without flue connections in WELL-VENTILATED rooms. However, it is advisable that all appliances using gas in considerable quantities should be connected with flues, for even the most efficient types may produce poisonous gas when the flame is first lighted.

If your water heater—or any other kind of a heater—is in the bath room, turn it out when you are ready for your bath. It requires approximately 10 cubic feet of air to supply sufficient oxygen to burn one cubic foot of gas—and there usually is little or no fresh air coming into the average bath-room.

Natural gas, when properly used, not only is efficient and economical, but it also is safe.

West Texas Gas Company places a higher value on the health, safety and good will of consumers than upon any revenue it might derive from gas that is not properly used.

OFFICIAL ALL-T. I. A. A. CAGE TEAM NAMED

Colvin, Fortenberry Win Berths on Mythical Quintet

Comer, Burk Are on Second String; Clark Gets Honorable Mention on Official Sheet.

Fortenberry, Can. Wise, Dan. Bk.
Center

Cheves, ACC — Burk, Canyon
Dixon, A&I — Johnson, McMurry
Guards

First division teams of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association this year furnished all the material for the first all-conference basketball quintet. The champion Canyon Buffaloes and the runner-up Wildcats of A. C. C. each contributed two players to the all-star club, while the third place Texas A. & I. Javelinas round out the combination with their crack guard, Dixon.

It chances that the men chosen for the mythical five are the leading scorers, game for game, for their positions. They averaged approximately 49 points per contest for the season, and it is estimated that, playing without relief by substitutes, they would have pushed the mean beyond the 60 mark.

Charles "Lefty" Reynolds of A. C. C., who scored 129 points to lead his nearest rival by 49 points, was an easy choice.

Colvin, Fortenberry Place

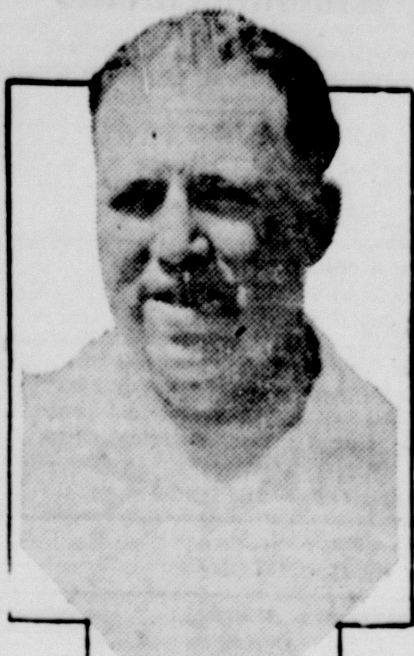

Two of Canyon's trio of man mountains are on the mythical list. They are George Ray Colvin, first-year forward, and Joe Fortenberry, who played his second season at center. Colvin, four inches above the six-foot mark, and Fortenberry, still three inches taller, were diamonds in the rough, but have been polished to a nice luster by Coach Sam Burton. Colvin was his team's scoring ace in conference competition, getting in an average of a dozen points per game. Fortenberry, whose pivot seemed to cover half the court, and whose height made guarding him next to an impossibility, was able to control the tip against most opposing centers with little effort.

Chappie Cheves, A. C. C. captain, and Dixon, A. & I. star, combined defensive ability with scoring punch and good coverage of the floor from the guard positions. Dixon was the defensive leader of the circuit, covering shooters in his territory well, and leaping in jumping-jack fashion to cut off in midair many shots. He led the Javelina five in point making with 65 in eight games.

The opposition found it difficult to stop the progress of Cheves' dribble and the Wildcat guard was not beaten at pivoting and passing. Playing in nine of the Christians' ten games, he found the hoop for 58 points.

Some outstanding players not named on either the first or second all conference team were: Clark, Canyon, guard; M. Connally, Sul Ross, forward and center; McKennzie, center, and Moody, guard, of McMurry; Powell, A. C. C., guard; and Chambers, Daniel Baker, Rev. W. H. Carter preach at the guard.—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

Coach of Champs

COACH BURTON

"Sad Sam" Burton, famous throughout the United States as the basketball coach who turns out championship basketball teams despite the fact that he never played the game himself, has turned out another aggregation that has proved its mettle by winning its third consecutive T. I. A. A. championship, the sixth time they have done this since they entered conference competition ten years ago. His teams have also established an impressive string of victories that is believed to be a record in this country.

Plays Last Game

CAPTAIN CLARK

Bob Clark, captain of the Buffalo cage team that has just hung up another T. I. A. A. record, has played his last conference game for Alma Mater. During his college career he has come out for basketball, football, and track, lettering in the first two. Critics say that he is one of the hardest-working basketball players they have ever seen, and as captain he has been invaluable to his teammates. In fact, he won his berth on the Buffalo squad by being willing to go out to the gym and practice shooting goals by himself for hours at a time.

He was always able to deliver the goods in a pinch, and his mere presence on the varnished floor seemed to inspire his teammates to outdo themselves. He may have the opportunity to play for W. T. again if the Buffs get to go to the national meet at Kansas City.

Birth of Washington and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" Celebrated at Same Time

WASHINGTON BORN 200 YEARS AGO; SONG WRITTEN CENTURY LATER

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing,
Land where my fathers died!
Land of the Pilgrim's pride!
From ev'ry mountain side,
Let freedom ring!

WHILE practically every American citizen knows that 1932 marks the 200th birthday anniversary of George Washington, few of the millions of Americans who have sung the above words know that this is the 100th anniversary of the writing of "America." And few Americans, perhaps, know the circumstances which attended the composition of the stirring familiar song.

"America" was written at Andover, Mass., in February, 1832, by Samuel Francis Smith, a 23-year-old theological student. A few years before his death in 1895, Smith, in an interview, told of how he came to write what has become one of the world's most popular patriotic songs.

"I wrote 'America,'" he said, "during my senior year at Andover Theological Seminary, shortly before my graduation. While poring over a book of German songs which Lowell Mason (noted composer and organist of that time) had sent me to translate, I came upon one with a tune of great simplicity.

"Humming it over, I was struck by the ease with which the accompanying German words fell into its music. I saw it was a patriotic song, and while I was thinking of translating it I felt an impulse to write an American patriotic hymn.

"Reaching for a bit of waste paper, and taking up my quill pen, I wrote the four verses in half an hour. I sent it, with some translations of German songs, to Lowell Mason, and the next I knew of it was when I was told it was sung by the Sunday school children at Park Street church at the following Fourth of July celebration."

A 23-year-old student of Andover Theological Seminary, Andover, Mass., Samuel Francis Smith, above, obeying a sudden whim, wrote the four-verse anthem, "America," in 30 minutes on a piece of waste paper. Below is shown the room in which he wrote the words to what has become one of the world's most popular patriotic songs.

The popularity of "America" increased steadily thereafter and, at the time of the Civil War, spread like wildfire.

SMITH was born Oct. 31, 1808, in the north end of Boston. Beginning the study of Latin at eight years of age, Smith could speak Latin at 12. He entered Harvard at 17, and paid his own tuition throughout college by tutoring and translation work. A member of Smith's class and one of his lifelong friends was Oliver Wendell Holmes, the famous poet.

On Nov. 16, 1895, Smith died of a heart attack at Boston, Mass., in a train which he had boarded for Readville, Mass., where he was to deliver an address.

During his lifetime Dr. Smith was pastor of a number of New England churches, editor of the Baptist Quarterly, and author of two books, "Rambles in Missionary Sketches."

The titles of his books indicate the tremendous interest he always held in missionary work. With his wife, Dr. Smith at one period of his life made a tour of nearly all the missionary fields of the world.

Faculty Members Keep in Touch With Ex-Students

When boys and girls leave the West Texas State Teachers College they continue to receive aid and advice from the members of the faculty with whom they have studied, according to information compiled by Miss Anna I. Hibbets of the Education Department.

Some colleges have an expensive system of follow-up work which enables them to keep in touch with every student for years after he leaves the campus. The Canyon college has never had funds for such a program, so each member of the faculty carries on this important phase of college service in his own way, giving to the individual student the assistance he most needs.

Sixteen members of the faculty make it a point to visit their ex-students in the places where they work. Sometimes such visits mean a few minutes spent at a tiny rural school far off from the main highways; sometimes they take place in the well equipped high school.

Exes Return Often

The college runs on a six day basis, and every Saturday finds many former students on the campus, seeking help in their personal or teaching problems; 35 members of the college staff reported that giving aid at such conferences is a common practice.

Hundreds of letters are written yearly to ex-students by 31 different members of the faculty, each letter is answered to an appeal for help in a special situation.

College students when first out on their own frequently do not know how to choose the books which will help them most, so 24 faculty members have provided helps in this direction. It takes a great deal of time to find books which will be within reach of a young teacher's purse and at the same time keep him up to date.

What patrons and fellow teachers think of a young teacher may keep a job, so 35 faculty members have conferences with principals and superintendents and parents of the towns where their ex-students teach, and so help them to correct mistakes and to do those things which will enable them to make real places for themselves in the community.

"Open Door" Policy

Twenty faculty members reported that they invite ex-students to their homes, so that they can keep in touch with campus life. One faculty member whose students are often his close personal friends, plans to have guests on week ends when there are basketball games, as these offer good entertainment and give the ex a chance to see a great many other visitors.

The mathematics department of the college tries to keep track of every student who has majored in it, and to secure recognition for those whose work is excellent.

Miss Hibbets' study also showed that faculty members do, as a matter of course, hundreds of little friendly acts which account for the affection with which the 16,000 ex-students view the Canyon College. Among these friendly gestures are messages in times of stress, letters of congratulation upon occasions of success, sending marked copies of helpful articles, and making lists of laboratory equipment needed and many others.

Faculty Profits, Too

All the value of such helpfulness does not come to the boy or girl who receives it. Faculty members say they get ideas as well as inspiration for their own class work, that contact with everyday public school situations keeps them alert to train their students to meet them. To John Smith and Mary Jones, making their first sallies into the world of stiff competition and stern reality, the helping hand of the former instructor is a real life-saver. One enthusiastic but hard worked young teacher said "If it were not for the streams of helpfulness from my former teachers at Canyon, I know I would just die." And, Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers College feels that it would surely die, were it not for the sustaining affection of the boys and girls, some of them now gray, who have passed through its halls.

Bi-Centennial Brings Patriotic Styles

WASHINGTON ANNIVERSARY STYLES, MANY IN STAR-SPANGLED RED, WHITE AND BLUE FABRICS, REFLECT COLONIAL MOTIF

BY HARRIET

It is stylish these days to be very patriotic in clothes.

That is, the George Washington Bicentennial is having a tremendous influence on dresses. Styles affect many of the fashions that were good in George's day, such as wide military shoulders, slender waistline effects, fichus, and tricky buttons of one kind and another. Materials definitely reflect the Colonial motif.

Among many new spring silk adaptations of fabrics used in Colonial days are star-dotted goods that come in red, white and blue. These new early American designs are a zestful addition to any wardrobe.

Don't think of these new prints as being good only up until George Washington's birthday. The whole year celebrates that illustrious patriot's 200th birthday anniversary and star-spangled frocks will be equally good for Fourth of July wear as Washington birthday attire.

There is a wide choice among these fabrics. Some use stars in different ways, to polka-dot plain red or plain blue backgrounds. Others combine stars and stripes to give novelty designs to silks. Still others have dainty floral designs, little flowers and scattered far apart, quite similar to the quaint prints of early American days.

ONE of the new early American prints is a 13-star design of navy blue, with white stars made with a touch of red to make it really all-American. It is a neat little frock, with a skirt that fits nicely to a high-waisted line where a red and white belt knots at one side for a decorative touch. The neckline is the becoming cowl, changed somewhat by having a line of white inside it and a bow of red at one side. The sleeves are made with dropcuffs, set into the flaring three-quarters sleeve at a high-elbow line so that the upper sleeve can fall away and still the tight cuff makes a long sleeve.

A second dress uses a colorful Betsy Ross design of stars and stripes used diagonally, to fashion the top of a black, high-waisted skirt costume. This little blouse has a surplice closing, which is chic and very good for full figures. It has short sleeves and the new collarless neckline. Used with dark blue for the skirt and short jacket to match the skirt, this makes an ideal office or school room costume and it is equally good on dress-up days for the homemaker.

L. N. George Says Many Families to Move Here Soon

L. N. George makes the following report on his work in the field for the College:

Since making my last report to the readers of the Canyon News I have added sixteen families to the list which I had. This makes 41 families, on my list, that are planning to be in W. T. this summer. By the opening of summer school there will likely be several times this number located in Canyon.

All good business men take an annual invoice of their business. They check up on what they have done the preceding year, where they now are and try to see where they are going in the future. Increasing college attendance is an enormous business. It has all the pitfalls and also possibilities that other businesses have. Can we realize that every teacher in the college, every student now enrolled in the college, every ex-student from the college, every parent of students or ex-students and every one that has land or a business in this territory has a vital part to perform in this big business. I believe that we can and should put these forces to work. Some of them are now at work and the others are willing. The faculty members, the present student body, most of the ex-students and business men are working beautifully. What I hope to do is to urge those to do a little more and cause others to swing into action. You are asking just what can I do to help the cause?

First, what does it mean to you to have 1800 to 2000 teachers in W. T. this summer? Increase the long term attendance from 200 to 500 over what we have now? Let us take the above mentioned invoice. We have seventy faculty members, around 1500 taking college work of some kind and about 15,000 ex-students scattered to the corners of the earth. We have approximately 10,000 college prospects in our territory. Four or five thousand of these are teachers and most of them have their pockets full of warrants. They have drawn little and hence spent little cash. They will have some money coming in through the summer. They are now counting these dollars that they will have to spend and selecting the place where their dollars will go the furthest. Back to what we can do. Have you a teacher friend who you think would be interested? If so, write him or give me his name and address.

Is our town just as attractive in every way as we can make it? Is your yard and back alley clean and free of fly breeding places? Are you planning flowers and vegetable gardens wherever they can be had? Are you painting and papering and planning to make the stay of those folks so pleasant that they will come back next summer and recommend us to others who go to college?

As I see it, this is Canyon's opportunity, her really first and if she does not use it, her last. The forces now at work will increase the attendance materially both this summer and next fall but the thing that really counts in all this is keeping and adding to those forces. This work, like charity, begins at home and this is not a minute too early for us to concentrate our local forces and get ready for action.

He had no sense of humor, but a serious ponderous mind. He held a fiery temper under control, except in extraordinary situations.

His religious faith gave him a strong sense of divine protection. He was not original in his religious beliefs, but accepted the general belief as being the best.

He was always a leader in everything, and under all circumstances. He had a large family of relatives for whom he did the thinking and planning. His neighbors always looked to him for leadership. He was chairman of everything that went on around Mount Vernon. It is said that no man of his time could have successfully carried the revolution to the successful end except Washington. He was not a military genius, but inspired confidence in others. His guiding hand is seen in the formation of the constitution, when the leaders first met at Mount Vernon and formulated plans. He was unanimously chosen the first president, as there was no other man capable of the position. He was able to take the advice of men, weigh all evidence and then reach a wise decision. He had the happy faculty of using the brilliant gifts of other men.

He was not especially affectionate, nor friendly. His only serious mistake in weighing the worth of men came from his friendship of Benedict Arnold. The traitor move of Arnold came as a great surprise to him, although distrusted by others. He had the ability to work with all kinds of men. Jefferson summed up Washington's characteristics as follows: A great, powerful mind, slow in operation, but sure. He had no fear, but was prudent. He carefully weighed all facts, and then went ahead.

Cage Tournament For Girls Gets Well Under Way

W. T. High School Heifers carried the heavy end of the score in the first of the girls intramural basketball tournament with Floy Shaw's Beginners, Tuesday afternoon, February 23, with a 48-10 score. The Heifer forwards, Clevenger and Bourland, did good work. The running center, Vaughn, also showed her skill with the ball. The sidelines roared with enthusiasm, with Dr. Harris M. Cook displaying some real Mississippi enthusiasm.

The Beginners were by no means idle, but did some hard fighting. The Sesames won the second game of the tournament with a score of 40-8 with the Whirlwinds as opponents. Glenna Collins carried off the honors of highpointer in this game.

Sesames Get Going

Wednesday afternoon the Sesames played the Heifers, the game ending with a score of 35-11 in favor of the Sesames. Glenna Collins kept the Heifer forwards dizzy trying to follow the ball. Thursday found the Sesames with a well-founded reputation, and a large crowd turned out to see them carry off more honors by defeating the Elapheians 35-11. Collins again carried off high point honors, making a total of 25 points during the course of the game. Johnson for the Sesames did some lightning-quick playing, and Ramsey, forward for the Elapheians, and Wiseman, guard on the same team also did some commendable work.

The Whirlwinds and Beginners played a one-sided game Thursday, the Whirlwinds piling up a score of 48 against 4 for the opponents. Emma Jean Reeves scored 40 of the 48 points for the Whirlwinds.

Whirlwinds Win

The Whirlwinds continued to win Friday afternoon, when they trounced the Heifers with a score of 30-12. Reeves was again highpointer with 24 points. Oneta Comer went out on personals. The girls playing in this game experienced considerable difficulty in staying on their feet on the slick floor.

The Beginners again met defeat at the hands of the Elapheians by the lop-sided count of 51-3. The Beginners had only three of their regular team present, but they found substitutes from the high school so that the Elapheians might not win by default.

The tournament will continue next week, and the finals will be played in the big Buffalo gym.
